

Iced Door: The 8th Directory

Saturday, 01 March 2008

Last Updated Saturday, 08 March 2008

There a list of directories, nice folded and ready to provide any information in case of needed. Directory has it's own door, a nice door with finger printed access door. Every visitors will be strictly recorded and filmed accurately. And every door has a counter, as information about how many access has been made to date and time.

I'm walking around just to observe the situation, to fill my curious feeling. Mmmm … seems a lot of door here, probably a hundred doors, nicely built in details. Some with classical ornament and some with future leap details. All of them are painted in soft colour, colour of beauty and freshness, The colours that will spoil everybody's eyes and heart. And uniquely, all colour are changing dynamically, according information desk this because of some dynamic updates happening inside.

Curiousness

But, there is one door with colour that has never change. Mmmm strange door , I'm walking to get closer. I found some surprises here, the door is the most beautiful door ever made, the most beautiful comparing with others.

Details are the second to nothing, built by exclusively unknown materials. The colour is blue, and it's never change, always with the same colour. I don't know why there's a thin ice on door's surface. And … ups it is very cold, freezing, my finger are becoming blue when touch it. Is the air conditioner inside is malfunction or what ? or at least with malfunction temperature switch ? . Strange door, Strange directory's door, the 8th directory door, the most beautiful door ever.

The answer

I really can hold my curious felling anymore, then I encourage my self to walk to information desk. A nice looking person is welcoming me with friendly smile. 'Hello Sir, May I help you sir ?'

Then the nice looking person told me a story, that she don't know that door will opened again or not. The door is an access to very valuable information, pictures, sound, stories and many others. The door has only have one user, only one key, only one finger printed password. Latest visit was dated on 365-1, but hardly to see the visitor's name, it's beginning with '..' and seems ended with '..'. Hard to see the person's name as monitor glass is fully covered by ice.

The door is belong to one man, unknown man, according to information desk belong to one man in time. A man with a heart that will never changed. A man that having silhouette as his picture and continue as mystery, A man in time, a mysterious man.

So many question in my mind about this door, why on ice, why coloured blue and why not dynamically changed like others, why only one person having it's key? who's the owner ? who is he ? what is the relation between the lady and the man ? who's the lady ? why her ?

Time will answer all of my questions, questions about the 8th directory's door.

Manila 365+2